ABERDEEN STUDENT HAS UM INTERNSHIP IN HOQUIAM

MISSOULA, Mont. --

James "Travis" Wilson, a University of Montana student from Aberdeen, Wash., has picked up some practical work skills this semester through an internship administered by UM's Center for Work-based Learning.

The UM senior in business administration has interned as a Web page designer and maintenance provider for the multimedia Internet publishing company of Dead End Street Publications in Hoquiam, Wash.

Wilson is a 1991 graduate of Weatherwax High School. His parents are Jim and Shirley Wilson.

The Center for Work-based Learning helps students integrate their academic education with practical job experience by developing internship opportunities and coordinating placement activities with employers and faculty advisers. It serves about 1,800 students a year, placing 400 to 500 of them as interns throughout Montana and the nation in more than 35 fields of employment.
